Important issues brought up at last town hall meeting

Hello all,

Really do appreciate your feedback at the last town hall meeting; although sometimes the issues are a bit visceral, it is recognized that important issues often are. We are happy to tell you that your concern about the carbon monoxide detectors was heard loud and clear and we are presently instituting a program to put them in your quarters right away. The lead-based paint program is continuing, however, we are researching alternatives to see what else we can do to mitigate any danger to your families; more to follow on this subject. Regarding fences around the schools and overall school safety, our MPUSB representative, Lt. Col. Phelps has met with the board and is working on a survey to get some more information. The MPUSB really wants to help however, we all need to accurately identify and know the full extent of the problem. We also started the push again for paid school crossing guards and/or traffic control monitors; while we did get the MPUSB to completely agree, am a bit disappointed that we have had only one person sign up, however, there is still plenty of time. Please talk it up; it is a great way to make a contribution to your neighborhood!

We are also working hard with Navy Public Works to provide you to best service in your homes that we can. Am very happy to report that the Navy has been taking great measures to revamp their whole system already demonstrating tremendous increase in productivity. They also had a great suggestion for us on how we can help all of you feel more self-sufficient in fixing minor household annoyances, such as toilets that won't flush, stopped up sinks, etc. — so we are going to examine the self-help program that they have at La Mesa to see what would be useful for us, too.

Once again, thanks for coming to the Town Hall and letting us know your concerns. Only ask that you would work with us in improving conditions for all of us. Sometimes it's a long hard push, but working together as a team, there isn't anything too tough that we can't accomplish!

Thanks for listening!

Army leaders send Thanksgiving Day message

Thanksgiving is the time when we pause to express our gratitude for the many blessings that we all enjoy. It is also a time to reflect and a time to remember the many contributions that each generation of Americans have given to preserve those blessings. We are eternal beneficiaries of their sacrifices and yours.

We live in the greatest nation on earth. We rejoice in freedom and prosperity that are unmatched. Each of you should feel very proud of the part that you play in keeping America strong. You, who serve in America's Army, willingly step forward to serve and pledge to defend the principles of liberty and equality. Today, people in more than 70 countries directly benefit from your presence as you spread the light of freedom around the world from Korea to the Balkans to the Sinai.

Each of you is on point for the nation. Your sacrifices make a tremendous difference for millions, and allow the citizens of the United States to live and prosper in peace and with unprecedented opportunity, protected by a strong national defense. To those of you who are deployed at this time, we give special thanks. Far from the comforts of home and the joys of the family Thanksgiving table, you offer hope to people around the world who long for the blessings of freedom and peace.

We have many reasons to express our heartfelt thanks for all of you who serve on the Army team. On this, the final Thanksgiving Day of the Twentieth Century, we wish all of you, as well as your families, friends and colleagues a safe and happy Thanksgiving holiday.

Joint message from the Honorable Louis Caldera, Secretary of the Army, and General Eric K. Shinseki, Army Chief of Staff.

America Reads program book drive ends Monday

The Monterey County America Reads Consortium first children's book drive continues until Monday. The goal is to collect books to give each child who is tutored through the America Reads project in kindergarten through third grade.

America Reads' focus is on increasing literacy of these young students through one-on-one tutoring. Now, as the U.S. Department of Education and educators throughout the country continue to stress the link between school and home environments, the program is seeking to encourage further reading practice and positive reinforcement by giving children books to take home with them.

Because the program tutors a group of students with diverse backgrounds, it is collecting multi-cultural books, as well as those written in Spanish and other languages prevalent in the county.

Drop off new or used books appropriate for kindergarten through third grade and in good condition at the commissary on the Presidio of Monterey Annex or at the Presidio of Monterey post exchange. Donations will not only help children learn to read, but can also earn one free admission pass to the Steinbeck Center for the donor. For more information about the book drive, to make a financial donation for the purchase of books, or to volunteer as tutor, call the Panetta Institute at 582-4200.

Who are the Native Americans?

No single federal or tribal criterion establishes a person's identity as an Indian. Government agencies use differing criteria to determine who is an Indian eligible to participate in their programs. Tribes also have varying eligibility criteria for membership. To be eligible for Bureau of Indian Affairs services, an Indian must (1) be a member of a tribe recognized by the Federal government; (2) have one-half or more Indian blood of tribes indigenous of the United States; or (3) must be of one-fourth or more Indian ancestry.

Originally, an Indian tribe was a body of people bound together by blood ties who were socially, politically and religiously organized. They lived together and spoke a common language or dialect.

Today, over 550 federally recognized tribes exist in the United States, including 223 village groups in Alaska. Only tribes over 100 000 people are the Cherokee, Navajo, Chippewa and Sioux. Of them, 20 per cent reside in reservations, Indian lands and Alaskan villages. By 2025, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, California and Washington will be home to about 45 per cent of the nation's American Indian, Eskimos, and Aleut population.

Past: The Frontier

The way of life which is called American belongs to the frontier. It was hard for the Europeans to understand why Americans face the West instead of the East, their acknowledged homeland, but it has been that way from the first. Opportunity and freedom lay in that direction. Even now, the tradition is so much a part of Indian hopes and thinking that they look to the West with longing eyes. At first, the mountains of Pennsylvania and Virginia were the frontier; later it shifted to Ohio and Kentucky, then to the Rockies, and the California became the frontier. At all times, the first associations with the frontiers are with the Indians. There were dangers, many of them, and perplexing problems to solve, which, if surmounted, gave increased strength and courage, but above all there was freedom of action and independence of judgment. From the first, the outstanding feature of the frontier was the Indian, who was also something of an individualist, and at times, rugged enough to suit the most aggressive people. The frontiersman rarely had the Indian out of his mind and often met with him in person.

It is inevitable that acts of violence dominate the history of the frontier because they are climaxes of the adjustment of the Indian to the white man. We often think of the Indians as always with a tomahawk in one hand and a scalping knife in the other, and the white man on the alert, shooting Indians, but it is a matter of climaxes. More often than not, Indians and whites were in friendly contact, exchanging goods, information, knowledge. The Indians' life intermeshed intricately with the American frontier and played a large part in the shaping of American life.

Present and Future

The days of the frontier belong to history. The Indian now lives with us in peace, his numbers are increasing and intermarriage is gradually narrowing down the racial cleavage.

More and more he will live as his white neighbors, but it will be a long time before he is absorbed into the white population and lose his community background and his tribal traditions. Yet, the Indian of the past occupied the United States thousands of years before our ancestors knew there was such a country, domesticated the most prominent of its wild plants, and thus, by experience, knowledge and achievement, laid an economic foundation good enough for the building of these United States. He has earned himself a prominent place in our history.

In his National American Indian Proclamation, President Clinton states that "generations of American Indians have served and sacrificed to defend our freedom, and no segment of our population has sent a larger percentage of its young men and women to serve our armed forces. But American Indians are not just an important part of our past: they are also a vital part of today's America and will play an even more important role in America's future... Through a variety of innovative enterprises, many tribes are sharing in the unprecedented prosperity our country enjoys today... However, many people who live in Indian Country are caught in a cycle of poverty made worse by poor health care and lack of educational and employment opportunity. If we are to honor the United States Government's long-standing obligation to Indian tribes, we must do all that is in our power to ensure that American Indians have access to the tools and opportunities they need to make the most of their lives. As a part of this endeavor, my Administration has strengthened the special government-to-government relationship between the Federal government and the sovereign nations of Indian Country."

As we prepare to honor our heritage, let's reflect on the words of the Sioux Prayer to the Great Spirit;

All over the world the faces of living ones are alike
With tenderness they have come up out of the ground
Look upon your children that they may face the winds and walk
the ground road
to the Day of Quiet
Oh, Great Spirit,
Fill us with the Light
Give us the strength to understand,
and the eyes to see.
Teach us to walk the soft Earth
as relatives
to all that live.

Please join the APAA in the celebration of this very special month.

Holidays also mark open season for retirement investors

By Douglas J. Gillert

American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — Federal employees can begin their holiday gift giving early with a gift to themselves in the form of Thrift Savings Plan investments.

Open season for the government's retirement savings and investment plan begins Nov. 15 and continues through Jan. 31, 2000. During this period, civilian employees with at least six months' continuous federal service may enroll in the TSP. Current participants can change their future contributions or the way they are invested.

The plan offers three investment funds. The G Fund invests in short-term U.S. Treasury securities specifically issued to the Thrift Savings Plan. Investments earn fixed interest at a rate equal to average market securities with four or more years of maturity. The U.S. government-backed securities guarantee G Fund investments and earnings against loss.

The F Fund invests in public-sector and commercial notes, bonds and other obligations and offers potentially higher returns than G Fund securities. The C Fund diversifies investments in the stock market and is the riskiest fund, but potentially the highest yielding one. Neither contributions nor earnings in these two funds are guaranteed or insured against loss.

There was talk last year of the plan adding two new investment funds, for international and small-business stocks, but nothing's been done on that so far and just three funds are available to investors.

Each of the funds has had varying degrees of success during the past 12 months. A healthy stock market has kept the C Fund atop the performance charts, yielding a 25.56 percent investment growth for the past 12 months ending Oct. 31. During the same period, the F Fund posted a .47 percent gain and G Fund investments grew by 5.78 percent.

All contributions to the plan are made through payroll deductions. The amount employees can invest depends on their employment status. Civil Service Retirement System employees may contribute up to the lesser of 5 percent of their basic pay or $10,500 in 2000. Federal Employee Retirement System employees may contribute up to 10 percent of their basic pay or $10,500 in 2000, and their agencies match the first 5 percent they invest.

The Thrift Savings Plan also allows participants to apply for low-interest loans, based on the current G Fund rate of return, including loans to purchase homes.

Program details are contained in Thrift Savings Plan brochures and forms available at Building 614, Room 134 and at the TSP Web site located at <http://tsp.gov> on the Internet. The next open season runs May 15-July 31, 2000. For more information on the Thrift Savings Plan, contact Beverly Diaz at 242-5714.

News Brief

Child Care Center honors 1999

Employee of the Year

On Wednesday, the Monterey Road Child Development Center held its first Employee of the Year Banquet at the Gen. Stilwell Community Center. The event was to honor the staff at the center who had been selected as an Employee of the Month during the 1999 year. Those employees who were recognized during the evening as Employees of the Month were: Martha Williams, Camille Wernsing, Betty Fox, Frances Savage, Claudia Johnson, Molly DiGeorge, Fay Carter, Clinton Townsend, Sandra Sheppard, Dave Sato, Marie Charles and Debbie Simpson.

During the banquet Col. Dausen, garrison commander announced the award of Employee of the Year for 1999. The award was presented to Martha Williams, a civil service employee since October 1983. Ms. Williams was selected by her peers as the recipient of the award. Martha is the room lead for a classroom serving 15 children. They described her as a loving and compassionate caregiver who continually places the children as her first priority.

The evening ended with door prizes being awarded to employees. Fun was had by all staff, parents and children of the center who attended the 1999 Employee of the Year Banquet.

Medal of Honor Memorial Dedicated in California

By Staff Sgt. Kathleen T. Rhem, USA
American Forces Press Service

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — About 85 of the 150 living Medal of Honor recipients attended the dedication Nov. 5 of the Medal of Honor Memorial at Riverside National Cemetery here. Ten widows of recipients also attended.

The memorial is the first publicly accessible site that lists the names of all 3,410 Medal of Honor recipients, said Michael Goldware, chairman of the Riverside National Cemetery Medal of Honor Memorial Committee.

In an emotional moment, Defense Secretary William Cohen recognized the recipients during the dedication ceremony by asking them to stand.

"America is eternally indebted to the families of our servicemen who stood — and continue to stand — behind each of these heroes," Cohen said in prepared remarks. "It is never too late for us, individually and collectively, to say, 'We recognize your loss. We respect your sacrifice. We thank you.'"

"I would like to invite this amazing array of Medal of Honor recipients here today to stand ... so that a grateful nation can honor their service and sacrifice," he said. "I would like their family members and the relatives of all the recipients, past and present, to also stand so that we may pay tribute to you."

Veterans Affairs Secretary Togo West and representatives of all the military services were also in attendance.

Goldware said the memorial was the brainchild of members of the Congressional Medal of Honor Society, whose annual convention was held in Riverside Nov. 3-7. He said they recognized Riverside National Cemetery as an ideal place for the proposed memorial and planned the dedication to coincide with the convention.

He explained that, at 280 acres,

Riverside National Cemetery is still only one-third developed. When fully developed, the cemetery will encompass 930 acres.

The open-air memorial consists of a plaza surrounded by the flags of all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, representing the homes of the Medal of Honor recipients. Italian Cypress trees, planted in "squads" of nine, encircle the plaza. Goldware said the $1.7 million required to build the memorial was raised solely through private and corporate donations.

The focal point of the memorial is a water sculpture, a wall of water created by a series of jets. The memorial's designers intended this centerpiece to be "a cool, quiet place for reflection."

The memorial will also feature an interactive computer kiosk. Visitors can use the kiosk to access the history of the medal, photos of recipients and individual citations, Goldware said.

"Among these walls, we hear more than the rousing echoes of the victorious, more than the tragic cries of the fallen. We hear the clear and distant trumpets of battles still to come, the summons to gather our courage and our resolve. And they bid us to preserve freedom in our time in order to honor those who made us free," Cohen said, concluding his remarks.

Interested individuals can see images of the memorial and get more information by visiting the Medal of Honor Memorial Web site at <http://www.cmohmemorial.org>.

Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emh1.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads per household in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (11-19) will continue to run through the Dec. 16 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the Dec. 3 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the Dec. 16 issue is Dec. 8.

Please refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
